Serving the Entire Village: The South Carolina Two-Generation Approach Summit

JUNE 2
1 - 4 PM

Featured Speaker

Georgia Mjartan
Executive Director,
South Carolina First Steps

Welcome to the inaugural SC Two-Generation Approach Summit. This virtual convening provides a forum for South Carolina leaders and practitioners who implement strategies that address the needs of whole families to share their expertise and experiences. Participants will also learn about the state's 2Gen Community of Practice and how to become a member.

We're thrilled you're here and look forward to a day of learning through engaging content and lively interaction.

Presenters

Eric Bellamy, Chief Partner Engagement Officer, Children's Trust of South Carolina

Eric provides strategic leadership for prevention programs such as Family Resource Centers and oversees the home visiting program. He joined Children's Trust in 2010 and has played a key role in building a statewide home visiting infrastructure that is well-respected nationally and across South Carolina. He currently serves on the board of directors for the Association of State and Tribal Home Visiting Initiatives.

Georgia Deal, Director of Early Childhood Services with Carolina Health Centers

Georgia manages the Early Childhood Division providing leadership and supervision to all staff and direct supervision to three home visiting programs Nurse Family Partnership, Parents as Teachers and Healthy Families. Georgia has worked professionally with family strengthening services for over 24 years and personally for over 30 years while caring for family and friends.

Steven Ferrufino, Assistant Director, Office of Child Health & Well-Being, SC DSS

Steven improves the well-being of children and families through client advocacy, the improvement of organizational engagement practices, advancing the inclusion of lived experience in systemic decision making, and increasing access to evidence-based services across the state.

Rachal Hatton-Moore, Two-Generation Coordinator, SC Early Childhood Advisory Council

Rachal supports the state's SC Family Voice Council, which will provide opportunities for families engaging with publicly funded services to inform and give recommendations to system and policy leaders around a variety of projects and topics. She is also the project lead for First5SC.org, a common eligibility and service application portal currently in development.

Marc Himes, Community & Agency Relations Manager, SC Center for Fathers and Families

Marc supports the Center's network of fatherhood organizations across the state and manages several fatherhood projects that help fathers see their value as responsible, confident and supportive dads. He supports program growth and training for local fatherhood organizations, manages community and agency relationships, and assists in educating external audiences.

Carmen Landy, CEO, Helping Hands of Aiken County

Carmen has been CEO of Helping Hands since 2005. She leads the organization to enrich the quality of life and well-being of children, youth and families through a continuum of residential and community-based services to improve their health, independent living skills, and educational outcomes. Carmen is a member of the Palmetto Association for Children and Families and has served as the Secretary since 2017.

Georgia Mjartan, Executive Director, South Carolina First Steps

As an Aspen Institute Ascend Fellow and the leader of the state's Early Childhood Advisory Council, Georgia utilizes the Two-Generation Approach in SC and is linking public, private and nonprofit systems to ensure whole families are supported in their efforts to become successful in school, work and life.

Promise Stephens

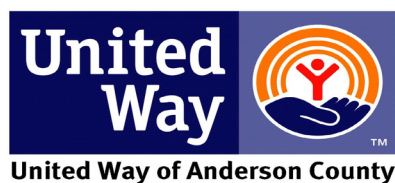

Promise, a single parent of two children, has been a participant in Carolina Health Centers' Parents as Teachers PAT program since April 2018. Ms. Stephens and her family have been positively impacted by PAT which has changed the trajectory of her life and lives of her children forever.

Sue Williams, CEO, Children's Trust of South Carolina

Sue has led Children's Trust of South Carolina since it was created in 2007. Currently, Sue sits on the board of directors for South Carolina First Steps to School Readiness, the South Carolina Office of Rural Health and EdVenture. In addition, she is a member of the S.C. Child Fatality Advisory Committee and the leadership team for the Alliance for a Healthier SC.
